

BLUE GROUP

During this week we taught the Welsh, Finnish and French students some "useful" words in Italian and Sicilian dialect. It was funny to see how the foreign students spoke our language. Salomé thought it was cool to be in another school and learn small bits of a different language and about the Italian culture. Harri also thought it was fun to learn new phrases; it was useful when he could ask the Italians if they would like to stay for the night. Each student enjoyed the ERASMUS + Project, it taught them not only about business and enterprise but about building friendships with other international students.
